OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

25X1 Thursday - 7 December 1972

1. [redacted] Colonel Seymour Shwiller, Technical Consultant, Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, called to say that he would be at DIA tomorrow morning for a briefing by [redacted], Chief, DT-1C, and asked if we would certify his clearances to Vorana's office. [redacted] Security, is handling this. 25X1 25X1

2. [redacted] Called Bill Van Ness, Chief Counsel, Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, who said they had firmed up their schedule and expected us to appear before the Committee in an informal, closed session at 0930 hours on Monday, 11 December in room 3112 New Senate Office Building. He said they would like about a fifteen minute introductory statement followed by about an hour's discussion. He asked how many of us would be appearing and I said [redacted] would provide a general overview and [redacted] would be along to answer questions. I said I doubted the Director would be available, and he said they were not counting on the Director's presence.

3. [redacted] Tom Korologos, who handles Senate liaison for the White House, called to ask the name and membership of the CIA Subcommittee of Senate Armed Services, which I gave him. He also wanted to know whether they had met last year and I explained that generally we had appeared before the full Committee rather than the CIA Subcommittee since Stennis had taken over, but noted that we had met with the Subcommittee on 5 April 1972. I asked Korologos when they were going to release the news and he said as soon as they could check it out with "the man in Mississippi." I said while they were checking it out they could save themselves a lot of trouble by notifying McClellan --or in his absence Bill Woodruff--and Mahon, Hebert and Nedzi. I said this would make our life a little simpler, and I thought it would make it a good deal easier on the new Director. Korologos said this was a fine idea and he appreciated it.

4. [redacted] Advised George Murphy, Joint Committee on Atomic Energy staff, that [redacted] the Agency's stenotypist, is retiring and will not be available to provide part-time work for the Committee in handling Agency transcripts. I said that her replacement is new on the job and we feel it would be asking too much to thrust her into a congressional briefing situation this early in the game. See Journal of 29 November 1972.

5. [redacted] In response to his request for information about D. K. Nehru, I told J. Sourwine, Chief Counsel, Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, the only thing we could come up with had to do with Braj Kumar Nehru the former Ambassador to the U.S. Braj Nehru was at one time a secretary in the Ministry of Finance and after his tenure as Ambassador to the U.S. became chairman of the Northeastern Council. This is a group of five Indian states and two union territories. The council is responsible for the coordination of the area's overall development. I told Sourwine that Braj Nehru was born on 4 September 1909 and is the second cousin of former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

6. [redacted] Called Ken Gray, Administrative Assistant to Senator Hubert Humphrey, and said that on the Senator's return we would very much appreciate an opportunity to hear about his trip, and particularly his meetings with Soviet officials. Gray said the Senator would arrive back in Washington on Saturday evening, 9 December, and would be going on to Texas on Sunday evening, but he was sure the Senator would have about four hours available on Sunday during which time he would be glad to see us. I said there was nothing urgent about our interest and we would be reluctant to impose on the Senator's time on Sunday. I suggested that Gray let us know later when the Senator might be in town under less hectic conditions which he promised to do.
